Trivia: This 1446 year, transitioning from Mohammed PBUH's legend, we're sharing stories of amazing Muslim women in history who have let nothing gstop them from doing great things. We believe that women and men are equally talented and are making a big difference across the globe. The stories featured are about Muslim women in history who have leading the way and impacted positive changes. These tales, a blend of internet & bookish findings wrapped in oral gospels, inspire women to soar and leave a legacy (with ample room for creative interpretations). On similar lines, we now want to hear from you about inspiring women around you! Share your voices, stories, their voices and stories with us by emailing info@srujanaunlimited.com. Let's celebrate the voices of our extra-ordinary Bohra women and learn from their amazing achievements. Once again, Saal 1446 Mubarak!

Trivia: Khadijah bint Khuwaylid was a very special person in the early days of Islam. She was a smart and kind lady who was good at business, lived in Mecca, around 555 CE. Before she married Prophet Muhammad, she hired him to take care of her trade caravans. She liked him a lot because he was honest, had a good character and a good heart, she asked him to marry her. Khadijah was one of the first people to become a Muslim and she supported and helped Prophet Muhammad in teaching Islam. Her death in 619 CE made Prophet Muhammad very sad because he loved her a lot. People in Islam remember her as the "Mother of the Believers" and admire her for being strong, never giving up, and having a lot of faith in Allah.

Trivia: Fatimah al-Zahra, born in Mecca around 605 CE, was the beloved daughter of Prophet Muhammad and his wife Khadijah. Fatimah married Ali ibn Abi Talib and played an important role in supporting her father and husband during the early years of Islam. People admired her for being humble, kind, and strong even when things were difficult. When Fatimah passed away in 632 CE, it was a very sad time for the Muslim community. She is remembered as the "Leader of the Women of Paradise" for her strong faith, good character, and devotion to God and His Messenger. Fatimah's life is an inspiration for Muslims around the world because she showed the best qualities of faith, sacrifice, and living rightly in Islam.

Trivia: Zainab bint Ali, born in 626 CE, was the granddaughter of Prophet Muhammad and the daughter of Imam Ali and Fatimah. She grew up in a family that was very respected and known for being good and knowledgeable. Zainab was very important in Islamic history, especially after the Battle of Karbala in 680 CE. When her brother, Imam Hussain, and many family members passed away, Zainab bravely stood up to the unjust rulers, speaking out against their unfairness and cruelty. Because of her bravery and commitment to truth and justice, she was called "Umm al-Masa'ib" (Mother of Sorrows) and "Sayyidat Nisa al-Alamin" (Leader of the Women of the Worlds). Zainab's words and actions still inspire Muslims all over the world and show strength and goodness even in hard times. Her legacy teaches us about being strong, dignified, and staying true to the values of Islam.

Trivia: Zubaida bint Ja'far al-Mansur was a very important person in early Islamic history known for her kindness and help to others. She was from a powerful family called the Abbasid dynasty and married the Abbasid Caliph Harun al-Rashid. Zubaida is best remembered for building the "Zubaidiyya" canal in Iraq. This canal was made to give water to pilgrims going to Mecca, making their journey safe and comfortable. She also supported the arts, sciences, and helped build things like hospitals, schools, and mosques, which helped make society better during that time. People admired Zubayda for her generosity and work for the community, making her very respected in her time. Even today, she is remembered for her good deeds and continues to inspire people to be kind and helpful.

Trivia: Sumayyah bint Khayyat is remembered as the first woman martyr in Islam. The Qurraish in those days would punish people who were embracing Islam. Similarly with Sumayyah, she faced a lot of difficulties when she, her husband Yasir, and her son Ammar were tortured and treated badly for not giving up Islam. They suffered but stuck to their faith. Her story teaches us about being brave, having faith, and not giving up, even when things are very hard. Sumayyah's determination and loyalty to Islam continue to inspire people all over the world.

Trivia: Shajarat al-Durr, also known as Taj al-Durr, was an amazing queen in Egypt during the 13th century. Initially a slave, became queen after marrying Sultan al-Salih Ayyub and becoming his favorite wife. After her husband's demise, she became the regent queen for her stepson, Sultan Turanshah. She showed great skill in politics and managed the country well. One of her biggest achievements was leading the Egyptian army to win a big battle against the Crusaders in 1250, capturing and defeating the Crusader king Louis IX. People really admired her bravery and smart leadership. Shajarat al-Durr's story teaches us about the power of strong women leaders in history and how they can make a big impact.

Trivia: In ancient Yemen, Queen Banu al-Akhdar, also known as Banu al-Akhdariyyah, was a wise and beloved ruler during the 9th century. Despite challenges, she brought stability and prosperity to her kingdom through smart decisions and kindness. Her focus was on making the economy stronger, improving roads, and supporting trade. This made Yemen an important trading center in the region. Banu al-Akhdar was respected by her people for her leadership and diplomacy. She also made alliances with neighbouring kingdoms to keep peace and security. While there aren't many stories about her, her legacy as a visionary queen who cared for her people remains strong in Yemeni history. She is remembered as a leader who made a big difference and left a lasting impact on her kingdom.

Trivia: Long ago in Persia, there was a clever woman named Sitt al-Mulk, also called Sayyida al-Hurra. She became very important as the top advisor, or vizier, for the Buyid dynasty. People really liked her because she was super smart and made good choices. Sitt al-Mulk made Persia a fantastic place during her time as vizier. She helped the economy grow and let everyone follow their own religion peacefully. She also loved helping smart people like scholars and artists, which made Persia a fun and smart place to live. Even though some people didn't want her in charge, Sitt al-Mulk was strong and smart enough to keep everything peaceful and happy. People still remember her as a great leader who cared about her country and its people. She showed everyone that women can be amazing leaders too.

Trivia: Once upon a time in Dilli in 1236, there was a brave woman named Raziyya al-Din, also called Raziya Sultana. She became the ruler, or Sultan, which was a big deal because she was the first and only woman to do so. Raziyya was very smart and learned a lot about how to run a kingdom. As Sultan, Raziyya did some really good things. She made rules to treat everyone fairly and equally, no matter their religion. She also got rid of unfair taxes and picked people for important jobs based on how good they were, not just because of who they knew. Even though some people didn't like her being in charge because she was a woman, Raziyya worked hard to be a good leader. Sadly, some people rebelled against her, and she lost her power and was killed in 1240. But she showed that women can be strong leaders too, and her story inspires people even today.

Trivia: Once upon a time in medieval Persia, there was a very special woman named Najmeh Saleebi. She was famous for being an amazing businesswoman and for helping her community a lot. Najmeh came from a rich family, and when she was young, she started her own businesses. She became really successful by trading things like cloth and spices. Her businesses not only made her rich but also helped the region grow economically. But what made Najmeh really special was how kind she was. She shared her wealth by building things like mosques, schools, and parks for everyone to use. People loved her for being so generous. Najmeh Saleebi's story teaches us that women can be great business leaders and also help others in their community. She is a great example of how success and kindness can go hand in hand.

Trivia: In Yemeni history, there was a woman ruler named Arwa al-Sulayhi. She was a queen during the time of the Fatimid Caliphate, a special Islamic group. Arwa was a strong supporter of this group and helped spread their beliefs in the Arabian Peninsula. As queen, Arwa did a lot to help her people follow the Fatimid Caliphate's beliefs. She built mosques, schools, and other places where people could learn about their religion. Because of her, the Fatimid beliefs became strong in Yemen and nearby areas. Arwa was known for being very religious, wise, and dedicated to her faith. Dawoodi Bohra's, a sub sect of Ismaili Muslims, who follow the Fatimid beliefs, still remember her as a great leader who helped their religion grow. Her story shows how important faith and leadership can be in shaping a community's history.
